Purpose

The purpose of this user guide is to highlight the main functions and intuitive features of the Electronic Submission Transfer form (eTransfer for short). This form is designed to be intelligent, provide, basic validation and error checking and to offer context sensitive help.

A note of caution: While the eTransfer form is interactive and is designed to make sure that certain basic information is provided, it is not intended to take the place of proper legal advice. The form does not have the ability to determine if the information you have entered is correct; it simply ensures that the required sections have been completed. In addition, although the goal of this user guide is to assist in the completion of the eTransfer form, it is not intended to be an exhaustive guide. Teranet Manitoba cannot provide legal advice.

General guidelines for completion

- Any field that requires a title number or instrument number must be completed using the land titles district office number:

Instrument Number ✓

Instrument Number ✗

The land titles office district numbers are as follows:

/1 Winnipeg

/4 Morden

/2 Brandon

/5 Neepawa

/3 Portage La Prairie

/6 Dauphin

- Many fields offer a default selection. Be aware that the default selection may not be the most appropriate selection for every scenario.
- Unless otherwise stated all fields are mandatory.
- When making a selection the option indicates that one and only one option must be selected. The option indicates that more than one option may be selected and in certain cases, it will be acceptable not to select any option at all.
- If the option is available it can be used to increase or decrease the number of entry fields. Keep in mind that a minimum of one entry may still be required. In addition, there may be a maximum number of entries that can be added.

Example: If an instrument is being registered against more than one title number, the button can be used to add those additional title numbers.

Saving and locking features

Recognizing that transfers are often completed jointly by both sides in a purchase and sale transaction, with each side filing out different parts of the form, the eTransfer is unique in that it is a double locking form. This feature allows transferor content to be inserted by transferors who can lock this part of the form when creating their signature pages. The form and signature pages can then be sent to the transferee side who can inset transferee specific content, locking their portions of the form once they have done so.

A Note about Agents: As you read through this guide you will see several references to the transferor and/or transferee completing a section of the eTransfer. We have used these terms for the sake of simplicity however it is important to note that when the term transferor is used in this guide it also refers to a party acting on behalf of the transferor where that is normally allowed. The same guideline applies to the use of the term transferee.

Recommended steps for locking and saving

1. Transferor completes transferor content pages.
2. Save a draft copy of the unlocked form.
 - Once you lock the transferor section of the form you do not have the option to unlock the form and make changes if necessary. This security feature has been implemented to protect the transferor from a scenario where the transferee unlocks the transferor content pages and makes changes.
 - As a result, we highly recommend that you save a draft copy of each eTransfer before locking the form so that you have a completed and unlocked version to go back to should you need to make a change (for example, you discover your client has a middle name that you were unaware of).
3. Lock transferor pages and create transferor signature pages.

Lock Transferor Pages and Create Transferor Signature Pages

- Locking the form will create the transferor signature pages.
- Reminder: Once you lock the transferor section of the form you will not be able to unlock it should changes need to be made. We have included a warning notice as a reminder.

Save a draft copy of this form before locking. Once you have locked the transferor sections, you will be unable to change those sections without creating a new form. You will be able to fill in certain areas in the transferor signature pages before printing. Save a new copy of the locked form prior to printing it out for signature. Following signing, send the signed transferor signature pages and the locked form to the transferee.

If you create a new form, any transferor content and signature pages already printed will be invalid, including all pages already sent to the transferee.

4. Print and complete transferor signature pages. You should save a copy at this stage. When you do so, give the file a different name than you gave to the unlocked form when you saved it.
5. Generate transferee pages.

Generate Transferee Pages

6. Send the original signed transferor signature pages to the transferee as well as a digital copy of the completed transferor section of the eTransfer form.
7. Transferee completes transferee content pages.
8. Lock transferee pages and create transferee signature pages. You must save a copy at this stage.
 - Once the transferee content of the form has been completed, selecting this option will lock the form, preventing any further changes, and will create the signature pages.

Lock Transferee Pages and Create Transferee Evidence Pages

9. If you need to make a change to the transferee content pages you are able to unlock this portion of the form.

Unlock Form and Remove Signature Pages

- No changes can be made to a locked form.
- If a change is required, this option allows the transferee portion of the form to be unlocked to allow for further editing. This does not unlock the transferor portion of the form.
- It is important to note that once the form has been unlocked, all previously created transferee signature pages become invalid.
- Subsequently re-locking the form will generate new transferee signature pages that will have to be re-executed by all parties.
- More information about this process can be found in the Security Features section of the User Guide.

- 10. Transferee prints all content pages and transferee signature pages.
- 11. Transferee completes signature pages.
- 12. Assemble eTransfer for registration. This will include transferor content and signature pages, transferee content and signature pages, any required evidence, and the RDA (Registration Details Application) with payment.

There are several options for providing information on tenancy and interest acquired. The following section will discuss on overview of the options available. For more detailed examples, please see Appendix A.

While the form allows for the creation and entry of multiple interests, no matter how many transferees you have added, the form defaults to one interest being created and one transferee acquiring that entire interest.

- The use of one interest is appropriate where:
 - one transferee acquires the entire interest, or
 - multiple transferees will be acquiring the entire interest either as joint tenants, or as tenants in common without specified individual interests.
- More than one interest is to be used where the interest being transferred is being divided into multiple specified interests. Additional interests are added using the button.

Once the number of interests has been defined, you are able to provide information on the each transferee's specific interest. Start by selecting either: one transferee, joint tenancy, or tenancy in common without a specified interest. If there is only one transferee, this is the only option that will be available to select.

Security features

The eTransfer is unique from our other eForms in that there are often two parties completing different sections of the form (transferor section and transferee section). To accommodate the option of having information on the content pages being provided by two separate parties at two different points in time we created a double locking form. See Saving and Locking Features for more information.

Once the transferor section is locked, four security features will be embedded onto each page. The security features are unique to each individually created document and offer a level of protection and encryption of the information.

Control Image

Control Number

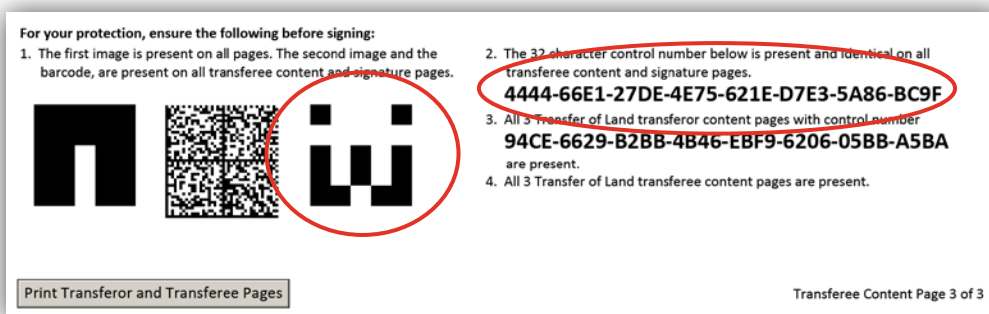

Control Barcode

The form can then be locked a second time by the transferee. After the second lock, a new control image and number are added to the security section at the bottom of the transferee sections of the form. The details of completed security images are as follows:

- The transferor security image and control number will appear on every page of the transfer (transferor and transferee pages).
- The transferee security image and control number will appear on every page of the transferee section only.

- There are several reasons why it is important to be mindful of the security features:
 - New security images will be generated every time the form is locked.

- If the transferee section form is locked, unlocked to make changes, and then subsequently relocked, all of the signature pages previously created become invalid. This is not an issue for the transferor security features because you are not able to unlock the transferor section to make changes.
 - The security features ensure that every party to the document has seen the same version and no pages have been substituted, replaced or altered.
 - The document can be easily reassembled by making sure all the security features on each page match.
 - Please note: All submitted forms not containing security images as outlined above will be rejected.
- The page numbers are indicated at the bottom of each page. The page numbers are specific to the content of the document as well as each signature page.

This feature will make it easy to ensure the document has been assembled in the correct order and that all pages are included.

Signature and evidence pages

- The Signature Pages for the transferor and transferee will be created once that section of the form is locked.
- The signature pages will auto-fill certain fields based on the information provided in Boxes 1 through 20 and the information required on the signatures pages will vary depending on the information provided in these content pages.
- The Notice to Witness warning may be included on the signature pages where applicable.
- Separate signature pages will be created for each execution required and may span multiple pages.
- The signature pages can be partially completed on the computer then printed and finished manually
- As the signature pages cannot be completed entirely digitally, no warnings will come up to notify of an incomplete box.
- When first produced, the signature page provides space for only one signing party on behalf of the interest holder.
 - The can be used to add additional signature pages that allow for more than one execution per interest holder.
 - Some examples of when this might be relevant include:
 - If there are several attorneys signing pursuant to a power of attorney.
 - If a corporation's policies require more than one person to sign documents on its behalf.

Transferor signature pages

Many personalized statements will auto-fill onto the signature pages depending on the nature of the transferor. For example, The Homesteads Act and age of majority statements for each transferor (if applicable) will appear on the transferor signature pages.

Here is an example of an individual transferor's signature page:

TRANSFEROR SIGNATURES AND EVIDENCE
1. I am or I am entitled to be the owner of the land.
2. I hereby transfer to the transferee my interest in the land.
3. I am of the age of majority.
